The KILM 7th Edition is a product of the ILO's Employment Trends team. Sara Elder coordinated the production of the KILM, with the team consisting of Evangelia Bourmpoula, Ekkehard Ernst, Isabelle Guillet, Richard Horne, Steven Kapsos, Theo Sparreboom and Derk van Wijk. Philippe Blet developed the KILM internet database (KILMnet) and Alan Wittrup, the KILM interactive software.

The continuing support from the Office of the Director-General and ILO Employment Sector management, especially José Manuel Salazar-Xirinachs and Moazam Mahmood, is greatly appreciated.

The KILM production is dependent on the continuing collaboration of the ILO Department of Statistics (STATISTICS). They provided invaluable access to the statistics and methodological information from the ILO LABORSTA statistical database and shared in improving the technical accuracy of the information. We also gratefully acknowledge the Conditions of Work and Employment Programme (TRAVAIL), especially Malte Luebker, Kristin Sobeck and Director Manuela Tomei, for providing the manuscript and data on average monthly wages.

The team also benefits from collaboration with ILO regional and subregional offices, specifically in the sharing of information from national and regional statistical sources. A good deal of the information published is made available through the continued cooperation and support of additional organizations, including The Conference Board, the Statistical Office of the European Communities (Eurostat), the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the UNESCO Institute of Statistics, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) and the World Bank. It is with deep gratitude that we thank our contacts in the various organizations for taking the time to share their data with us.

The preparation and finalization of this publication owe a great deal to the staff of the Document and Publications Production, Printing and Distribution Branch for their assistance and professional work on formatting and printing the manuscript. Finally, members of the KILM team wish to express their deep appreciation to any organization or individual not listed here who assisted or provided guidance during the development and implementation of the project.
